

AggieAir Employee Spotlight: Eric Mielke

03/25/2019

Eric Mielke

Undergraduate Researcher: Electrical Engineer

This week's AggieAir Employee Spotlight is Eric Mielke, a senior in electrical engineering at Utah State University.

Eric works as an Electrical Engineer here at AggieAir, and works primarily on upgrading the door systems for our aircrafts. These door systems are critical to AggieAir because they protect our cameras and keep debris from entering the payload area during landing.

Eric's favorite part about working at AggieAir is, "that I actually get to work on airplanes- there's no better job."

Eric plans to graduate this coming May, and will be working as a developmental electrical engineer after that.

When Eric isn't working at AggieAir or studying, he's usually reading or playing with his 4-year-old dog, Moose.
